OBITUARY

Glenville Anthony March was born on October 26, 1942 in Kingston, Jamaica West Indies to Cecil March and Hildred Rhoden.

The oldest of four boys, Glenville, along with his older sisters, Gloria and Claudette, took his responsibility as a leader in his family very seriously. When his mother and father immigrated to England early in his life, Glenville personally ensured that his brothers Clifton, Cecil, and Errol continued and excelled in their education. He went on to become a tailor's apprentice until he became a tailor years later. Subsequently, Glen left that profession to become an accountant for the Agricultural Ministry of Jamaica where he met a lifelong friend, Leopold Henry, a friendship that lasted sixty years.

With his hard work and dedication to family, he was rewarded by meeting his lifelong love, Avis Louise March, a woman who not only captured his eyes but his heart as well. Avis, a country girl, met Glen, a city boy and they were inseparable. They were married in Jamaica on November 16, 1963. Glen and Avis worked very hard, took a chance and immigrated to the Bronx, New York with their sons, Glenville, Jr and Garnett in 1969. Staying true to their philosophy of education and providing opportunity for their futures, Glen made sure his boys got the best education that he and his devoted wife could afford. Their vigilance and dedication to their sons enabled them to become great and successful men; Dr. Glenville March, MD, a world-renowned doctor and Garnett March, a record executive. Both went on to have lovely families of their own.

Throughout his twenty-five years in New York, he worked as an accountant for a community development agency called Christian Community in Action where he managed New York City contracts for social service programs like home attendants, meals on wheels, a senior citizen center, along with many other programs. Glenville was an active member of his church community and always gave his talents for money management to the Lord. He joined Agape Church of God with his spiritual coach, Avis. They quickly became a part of the Agape community and Glen became a trustee and used his accounting skills in the service of the church.

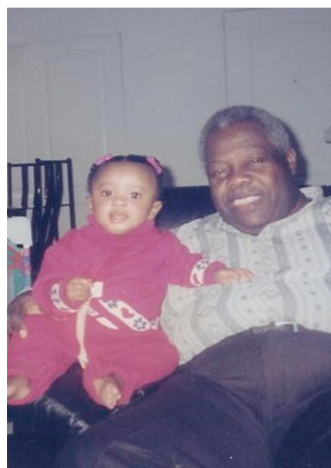

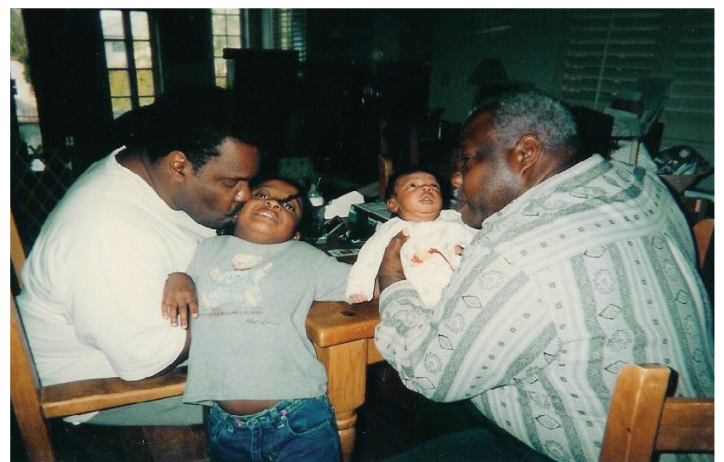

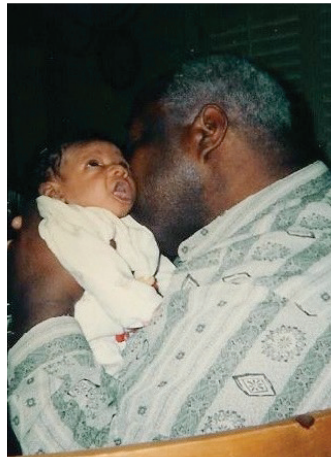

In 2002 Glen and Avis retired from cold and icy New York to be closer to their sons and grandchildren in warm and sunny Los Angeles. He and his wife attended as many sporting events, school events, and birthday dinners as they possible could.

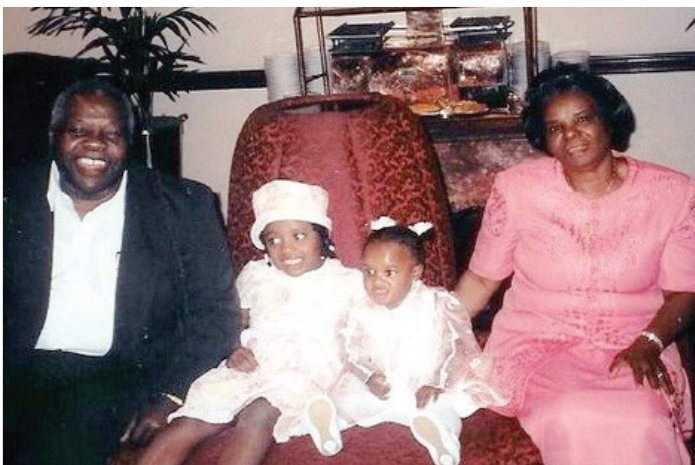

After coming to Los Angeles they adjusted quickly to the west coast lifestyle and found a new church home with the West Valley Community Church, where they were able to add value as experienced elders in the church. Glen continued to use his accounting skills in the service of God, and ensured that WVCC's books were clean and up to date.

Glen always added value to the lives of others when he had an opportunity. And always afforded individuals dignity and support while doing so. He learned much of this behavior from his angelic wife and the rock of his life Avis.

Glenville died peacefully in the hospital after praying with his wife on March 7, 2021.

Glenville is preceded in death by his parents, Cecil and Hildred, and his oldest sister Claudette.

Only when you drink from the river of silence shall you indeed sing.

And when you have reached the mountain top, then you shall begin to climb.

*And when the earth shall claim your limbs,
then shall you truly dance.*

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Perhaps you sent a lovely card, or sat quietly in a chair.
Perhaps you sent those beautiful flowers, that we saw sitting there.
Perhaps you spoke the kindest words, as any friend could say.
Perhaps you were not there at all, just thought of us that day.
Whatever you did to console our hearts we thank you so much for whatever part.
